California Labor Commissioner — Wage Claim

Cover Summary and Supporting Narrative

Prepared by: Daniel Pall (also known as TechyMechy)

Claimant email: mechaniel@gmail.com

Date prepared: June 3, 2026

Claim type: Unpaid earned compensation / wages for work performed in California

Amount claimed: $2,261.78 (8 working days + 2h 55m at $1,352.00/week, 5-day work week — deferral voided by termination, 100% owed immediately per Section III) — see Section 3 below

> Additional separate claims exist for equity (30%) and commission (7%). See Section 10. Accrued deferred compensation is already included in the $2,261.78 wage claim — the deferral schedule was extinguished at termination and all amounts accelerated to immediately payable wages per Section III.

> Important notice: This document is a supporting narrative for a California DLSE wage claim. It is not legal advice. Claimant should consult an attorney before filing if possible. File the wage claim at: https://www.dir.ca.gov/dlse/howtofilewageclaim.htm*

2. Jurisdiction — Why California DLSE

All work was physically performed by Daniel Pall from 909 W Temple St, Los Angeles, CA 90012.

Per the California DLSE wage claim office locator: for telework, work is performed where the worker was physically located. Daniel was physically in Los Angeles, California during the entire work period.

The California DLSE has jurisdiction over unpaid wages and earned compensation for work physically performed in California, regardless of where the employer is located.

3. Work Period and Amount Claimed

Base Compensation Rate — From Signed Employment Agreement

The agreed compensation rate is $1,352.00/week gross (5-day work week; $270.40/day; $33.80/hr). This is the rate cited in Daniel's formal payment demand and used in all calculations below.

Full Wages Owed Upon Termination — Deferral Structure Does Not Reduce the Claim

The agreement contains a startup 50/50 deferred payment structure for the first six months: approximately half of weekly pay as immediate cash, half deferred and recorded as owed. This structure is irrelevant to the claim amount because Daniel was terminated.

Per Section III: "Upon termination, Employer must pay Employee all earned, unpaid, and non-disputed compensation owed through the termination date, including any accrued deferred compensation."

The deferral schedule applied only while employment continued. Termination accelerated all accrued deferred compensation to immediately due wages. The $2,261.78 calculated below represents 100% of earned wages for the full work period — it is not limited to the cash-only portion. X-CEED may not withhold any portion of wages under a deferral schedule that was extinguished at the moment of termination.

Calculation at Agreement Rate

Period	Days	Calculation	Amount
May 19 (Tue) – May 22 (Fri)	4 working days	4 × $270.40/day ($1,352 ÷ 5)	$1,081.60
May 23–24 (Sat–Sun)	Weekend — not counted	5-day work week	$0.00
May 25 (Mon) – May 28 (Thu)	4 working days	4 × $270.40/day	$1,081.60
May 29 (Fri) – terminated 2:55 AM	2h 55m	$33.80/hr ($270.40 ÷ 8) × 2.917 hrs	$98.58
Total (8 working days + 2h 55m)			$2,261.78

- Agreed weekly rate: $1,352.00/week gross (5-day work week; $270.40/day; $33.80/hr)
- Work began: May 19, 2026 at 5:13 PM (corroborated by Daniel's signature date of 5/19/2026 on the employment agreement)
- Termination/removal: May 29, 2026 at approximately 2:55 AM
- Nothing has been paid. $0.00 received.

Additional Claimed Amounts (Separate from and Cumulative with Base Wages)

Beyond the $2,261.78 base wages claim, the employment agreement establishes additional compensation Daniel may claim. Note: accrued deferred compensation is already included in the $2,261.78 — it is not a separate line item. The following are separate and cumulative:

- 30% equity interest in X-CEED TECH SOLUTIONS LLC — established in Section VII and Exhibit B; X-CEED is obligated to provide written equity documentation
- 7% commission on gross revenue received by X-CEED from jobs/projects completed by Daniel (Section IV / Commission Ledger, Exhibit C)

These are separate and cumulative on top of base wages — the agreement expressly states equity and commission are "in addition to" base compensation and "shall not be treated as payment in place of wages" unless Daniel signs a separate written conversion agreement.

4. Nature of the Claim — Legal Theories

This claim is filed under one or more of the following theories, in the alternative:

Theory 1 — Unpaid Wages (Employee / CTO)

X-CEED represented Daniel as CTO, discussed payroll, assigned an employee number, gave full access to infrastructure and systems, directed all work, and confirmed payment. If DLSE finds an employment relationship (or misclassification), this is a straightforward unpaid wage claim under California law.

Theory 2 — Misclassification Review

If X-CEED asserts Daniel was an independent contractor, claimant requests DLSE review whether he was misclassified given:

- Role title assigned: CTO (confirmed in writing by X)
- Payroll discussion and employee number assignment
- Full systems access and exclusive direction of work
- Representation in company CRM/HR records
- Continuous engagement on company projects from May 19 onward

Theory 3 — Payment for Requested and Accepted Services

Even if no formal employment agreement was signed, X-CEED requested specific technical services, Daniel performed them, X-CEED accepted and benefited from the deliverables, and X-CEED admitted in writing that Daniel would be paid for work performed.

Theory 4 — Quantum Meruit / Unjust Enrichment / Implied Contract

X-CEED may not retain the benefit of substantial technical services while paying nothing, solely by denying a signed employment draft. The law does not permit that result.

5. What X-CEED Directed Daniel to Do — Work Performed

From May 19 through May 29, 2026, X-CEED directed Daniel to perform (and Daniel performed) the following:

Software Development

- Built skyhigh-hosting-bot: a full-featured Discord hosting bot from initial commit to deployment, including: Web dashboard with Discord OAuth authentication; Stripe payment integration and coin/credit system; Nextdactyl / Pterodactyl panel integration; Role verification and onboarding panels; RSA license validation system; Health monitors with CPU/RAM/disk alerts; Audit logging for all server events; Account linking system; Slash command suite (admin, moderation, roles, tickets, utilities, giveaways); Multiple database schema iterations (v1–v9)
- Built ip-manager: Node.js/Express employee IP registration portal with IMAP credential verification against Docker Mailserver — allowed employees with dynamic IPs to register and access company infrastructure securely
- Configured and deployed skyhigh-bot (community Discord bot)

Infrastructure and DevOps

- Deployed and configured 13 Docker containers including: Paymenter, Nextdactyl, Nginx Proxy Manager, Roundcube, Docker Mailserver, WordPress, multiple databases
- Configured Nginx Proxy Manager reverse proxy with Let's Encrypt SSL (DNS-01 via Cloudflare)

- Set up DNS/domain records for x-ceed.net (mail, access, billing, webmail subdomains)
- Configured Docker Mailserver with TLS, DKIM, SPF/DMARC
- Wrote and deployed iptables hardening rules protecting Unraid web UI (ports 8888/8883)
- Locked admin-only ports (81, 8080, 8025, 3002, 53135, 4190) to admin IP only
- Locked database ports (3306/3307) to Docker subnet only
- Implemented dynamic IP whitelist system (iptables UNRAID-WHITELIST chain, cron-based)
- Persisted all firewall rules to `/boot/config/go` for reboot survivability
- Administered SSH access; performed 37+ authenticated SSH sessions on May 21 alone
- Produced full infrastructure handoff documentation, security audit report, and service inventory

6. X-CEED's Key Representations and Admissions

The following were said by Jonathan Dunnigan / X in Discord messages (screenshots preserved):

Statement	Significance
"I'm going to setup payroll."	Payroll discussion — employment relationship indicator
"ima get you a employee number."	Employee number — employment relationship indicator
When asked whether job title should be "Senior Software Dev or CTO" — X answered: "CTO."	Title/role representation
"you will get paid for the work you did."	Direct admission of payment obligation

These admissions are preserved in the Discord screenshot record (34 screenshots, labeled DM3–dm34 and Discord Messages #1–#2).

7. X-CEED's Denial and Why It Fails

X-CEED sent a formal denial letter on May 30, 2026 (from Jonathan Dunnigan, jzdunnigan@yahoo.com). The letter:

1. Claims no signed employment agreement exists
2. Claims the unsigned draft has no legal authority
3. Claims Discord messages are "invalidated" by Section XV of the unsigned draft
4. Accuses Daniel of double-billing and fraud
5. Declares the matter closed

Why each argument fails:

"No signed employment agreement"

This does not mean $0 is owed. Even without a signed agreement, payment is owed under theories of requested services, accepted services, benefit received, quantum meruit, unjust enrichment, and implied contract. X-CEED cannot request and benefit from work and then pay nothing by saying the final employment draft was unsigned.

Section XV argument is self-defeating

X-CEED quoted Section XV of the same document it calls void, claiming Discord messages are "invalidated." But the actual text of Section XV states:

> "No verbal statement, silence, delay, continued work, staff title, Discord role, or informal message shall waive Employee's right to compensation, commissions, deferred compensation, hardship reserve balances, or equity unless the waiver is in a separate written agreement signed by Employee."

This clause protects Daniel's right to compensation. It prevents X-CEED from claiming Daniel waived his pay by continuing to work. X-CEED misread their own quoted clause — it helps Daniel, not X-CEED. Discord messages remain fully usable as evidence.

Section XIII makes Discord messages explicitly admissible as evidence

Section XIII of the same agreement states:

> "The Parties agree that written communications, including emails, Discord messages, payroll records, invoices, ledgers, screenshots, tickets, project-management records, commits, and signed electronic documents may be used as evidence of work assignments, compensation terms, approvals, notices, equity commitments, payment requests, and disputes."

X-CEED cannot argue that Discord messages are invalid evidence while simultaneously being bound by a term in their own employment agreement that explicitly makes Discord messages admissible as evidence of compensation terms and payment disputes. This is a direct, express contractual provision. X-CEED drafted and sent this agreement.

Section XX makes Discord acknowledgments binding on X-CEED

Section XX (Electronic Signatures) states:

> "electronic signatures, typed names, scanned signatures, verified e-signature platforms, email confirmations, and Discord acknowledgments may be used to show acceptance of this Agreement... A signature or written confirmation from an authorized Employer representative shall bind Employer to this Agreement if the representative has authority to bind X-CEED TECH SOLUTIONS LLC."

This means any Discord message from Jonathan Dunnigan confirming CTO role, compensation, payroll, or terms constitutes binding employer acceptance of those terms.

Internal inconsistency

X-CEED cannot claim the unsigned draft has "no legal authority" for compensation purposes while simultaneously invoking a clause from that same draft to try to eliminate Daniel's evidence. The argument is internally contradictory.

Double-billing accusation

X-CEED's double-billing accusation is unsubstantiated and is directly refuted by the documentary record.

Chronological separation: Daniel began work for X-CEED on May 19, 2026. The separate Xerox/XBUniverse contractor agreement was not signed until May 25, 2026 at 2:38 PM — six days into the X-CEED work period. This means Days 1 through 6 of the X-CEED engagement (May 19–24) were entirely outside any Xerox relationship.

Complete project separation: The corrected Xerox timesheet expressly states: "No billable hours are claimed prior to contract execution." It covers only May 25 (post 2:38 PM) through May 28. The X-CEED deliverables (Discord hosting bot with Stripe/OAuth/Pterodactyl integration, IP registration portal, Docker infrastructure across 13 containers, iptables hardening, DNS/domain configuration) are categorically and completely different from the Xerox deliverables (Cyberpunk 2077 multiplayer mod in C#/C++, Redscript, XAML/WPF launcher, native DLL, live game test). No deliverable, invoice line, or false statement has been identified that constitutes double-billing.

X-CEED has not identified: the specific date, time block, service, amount, or false statement it claims was billed twice. Without a specific identification, there is no valid double-billing claim under any legal standard.

Downloads corroborate separation: The full-period timesheet shows X-CEED LLC filing PDFs downloaded May 21; IRS EIN confirmation (CP_575_A.pdf) downloaded May 21, 1:47 PM; employment agreement draft downloaded May 22, 4:30 PM. Daniel was reviewing X-CEED's own company formation and employment documents during CTO onboarding — prior to any Xerox involvement.

Shifting explanations

The record shows X-CEED's positions shifted in this sequence:

1. You'll be paid, but not the full amount due to "recent events"
2. Payment withheld pending investigation
3. "Suspect of fraud until deemed innocent"
4. All payments withheld until "deemed innocent"
5. Demanded notarized admission before any payment/compliance
6. No signed employment agreement, so $0 owed
7. Matter closed; further contact is "attempted fraud"

This is not a coherent payment defense. This is a pattern of escalating refusal after receiving the benefit of work.

Complete technical reference for X-CEED infrastructure authored by Daniel. Documents server configuration, all running services, Docker networks, DNS setup, port maps, iptables architecture, IP whitelist system, file paths, known issues, and service management commands. States archive was created for continuity, handoff, and proof of work. Documents what was intentionally excluded (secrets, keys, tokens, customer data). Rebuts X-CEED's "unauthorized acquisition" accusation — Daniel acted professionally and specifically excluded sensitive material.

N. Source Code (3 Applications)

Location: XCEED_Tech_Work_Archive_2026-05-22/01_source_code/

- ip-manager/ — complete source (server.js, Dockerfile, package.json, public/index.html)
- skyhigh-bot/ — complete source (multiple schema versions, commands, events, handlers, utils)
- skyhigh-hosting-bot/ — complete source (dashboard, payments, commands, events, handlers; 9 schema versions)

The existence and content of this code is proof of authorship. It was deployed and running on X-CEED infrastructure.

O. iMessage Conversation with Jonathan Dunnigan (15 screenshots: tm1.png – tm15.png)

Location: Comunications/ folder

Screenshot(s)	Content
tm1.png	Daniel sends Chase bank routing number and account number to X for direct deposit payroll — employees provide direct deposit information to employers; contractors provide invoices. Corroborates the employment relationship.
tm2–tm4.png	Daniel informs X of the Xerox/XBUniverse dispute; shares corrected Xerox timesheet; includes a screenshot of "Lucifer" (Discord username) relaying a threat from Xerox to report "Sky High Hosting for fraud to the state of Michigan LARA" — shows Xerox was applying outside pressure on X-CEED directly.
tm5.png	X states in iMessage: "Everyone is guilty until proven innocent, I will talk to both of you in the morning with my lawyer" — documented origin of the "deemed innocent" standard subsequently used to suppress Daniel's payment claim.
tm6.png	X personally texts his email address: jzdunnigan@yahoo.com — confirms he is the same individual who sent the May 30 formal denial letter from that address.
tm7–tm8.png	Xerox demands GitHub repository access before paying Daniel; Daniel begins transmitting formal NOTICE OF PAYMENT DUE to X via iMessage.
tm10–tm13.png	Complete formal NOTICE OF PAYMENT DUE sent via iMessage: role (CTO/Technical Services), start date (May 19, 2026), termination date (May 29, 2026 at 2:55 AM), agreed weekly rate ($1,352.00), full payment breakdown ($1,352.00 + $579.43 + $23.47 = $1,954.90). Sent Sunday at 11:46 AM.
tm9 + tm14–tm15.png	Daniel's "Final Written Notice": "You already admitted in writing that I will be paid for the work I did... That is not a payment dispute. That is coercive payment withholding." Closes: "All rights reserved. No waiver. No admission. No further informal debate."

Critical — Read receipt confirmed: The final message (tm15.png) displays "Read Sunday" beneath Daniel's final written notice. Jonathan Dunnigan received and read Daniel's formal payment demand and coercion accusation via iMessage before sending his formal denial email. There is no "I never received notice" defense available.

P. Full-Period Work Timesheet (May 19–28 — Machine-Generated)

File: XBUniverse_Timesheet_Evidence_May19-28_2026.txt
Total hours documented: ~58 hours across 10 days

Key significance: Days 1–6 (May 19–24) document X-CEED-specific activities — Xbox Live API research, server setup, Nextdactyl download/configuration, Node.js hosting backend, Docker compose configuration, and review of X-CEED company formation documents. Downloads include

X-CEED LLC filing PDFs (May 21, 9:26 AM), IRS EIN confirmation (May 21, 1:47 PM), employment agreement draft (May 22, 4:30 PM). Daniel was engaged in X-CEED company matters, not Xerox matters, during May 19–24.

Critical Terms Established

Term	Agreed Value
Position	Chief Technology Officer (CTO), full-time, at-will
Employer address	3627 Buckingham, Detroit, Michigan 48224
Employee address	909 W Temple St., Apt. 606A, Los Angeles, CA 90012
Weekly gross rate	$1,352.00/week; $270.40/day; $33.80/hr (5-day, 40-hr work week)
Initial 6-month payment structure	50% immediate cash / 50% deferred — full 100% accelerates to immediately due upon termination per Section III
Equity	30% ownership interest in X-CEED TECH SOLUTIONS LLC
Commission	7% of gross revenue received from each completed job/project
Governing Law	Michigan
Start date (per Daniel's signature)	5/19/2026 — corroborates May 19 work start

Most Legally Significant Provisions

Section III (Termination): "Upon termination, Employer must pay Employee all earned, unpaid, and non-disputed compensation owed through the termination date, including any accrued deferred compensation, accrued hardship reserve balance, earned commissions, and other amounts owed under this Agreement. Termination does not waive, cancel, convert, or forgive compensation already earned by Employee."

Section VII (Equity): "Employer agrees that Employee shall receive a thirty percent (30%) equity ownership interest in X-CEED TECH SOLUTIONS LLC..." The equity interest shall not be treated as payment in place of wages unless Employee signs a separate written agreement clearly stating that specific conversion.

Section XIII (Written Communications): "written communications, including emails, Discord messages, payroll records, invoices, ledgers, screenshots, tickets, project-management records, commits, and signed electronic documents may be used as evidence of work assignments, compensation terms, approvals, notices, equity commitments, payment requests, and disputes." — Discord screenshots are expressly admissible under the contract's own terms.

Section XV (Amendments, misquoted by X-CEED): "No verbal statement, silence, delay, continued work, staff title, Discord role, or informal message shall waive Employee's right to compensation..." — This protects Daniel's right to compensation. X-CEED misread this clause.

Section XIX (Entire Agreement): "This Agreement supersedes all prior oral or written agreements... except unpaid amounts or obligations that this Agreement expressly recognizes as still owed."

Section XX (Electronic Signatures): Discord acknowledgments by an authorized X-CEED representative bind the employer to this agreement.

"Corrected Separate Agreement" designation: The agreement explicitly states it is "separate from, and does not amend, any independent contractor agreement involving Xerox / xerox710 or any separate network, server, or community" — entirely severing the Xerox dispute from the X-CEED employment relationship.

9. Work Location Statement

Daniel Pall performed all X-CEED work physically from Los Angeles, California.

Specific address: 909 W Temple St, Los Angeles, CA 90012

All SSH sessions, Git commits, file creation activity, and Discord communications originated from this location. Per California DLSE guidance, telework is performed where the worker is physically located. California law and the California DLSE have jurisdiction over this claim.

10. Specific Relief Requested

1. Unpaid wages (base + accrued deferred compensation, fully accelerated upon termination per Section III): $2,261.78 — 8 working days + 2h 55m at $1,352.00/week ($270.40/day; $33.80/hr), May 19 5:13 PM through May 29 2:55 AM. Deferral schedule was extinguished at termination; 100% of earned compensation is immediately due. Nothing has been paid.

2. 30% equity ownership interest in X-CEED TECH SOLUTIONS LLC (Section VII and Exhibit B of employment agreement)
3. 7% commission on any gross revenue received by X-CEED from jobs or projects completed by Daniel during the work period (Section IV / Exhibit C)
4. California waiting time penalties under Labor Code § 203 — X-CEED willfully failed to pay all wages at separation on May 29, 2026. Penalty accrues at one full day's wages ($270.40/day) for each calendar day wages remain unpaid, up to a 30-day cap:

Milestone	Days Elapsed	Penalty Accrued
May 29, 2026 — termination	Day 0	$0.00
June 3, 2026 — today	5 days	$1,352.00
June 28, 2026 — 30-day cap	30 days	$8,112.00 (maximum)

   Minimum quantifiable cash demand as of June 3, 2026: $3,613.78 ($2,261.78 wages + $1,352.00 penalties accrued to date)
   Maximum quantifiable cash demand (cap reached June 28, 2026): $10,373.78 ($2,261.78 + $8,112.00)
   Penalty continues to grow $270.40/day until paid in full or the 30-day cap is reached.
5. Misclassification review if X-CEED claims no employment relationship existed — Daniel requests DLSE evaluate worker status based on the CTO role explicitly named in the employment agreement, payroll representations, employee number assignment, full systems access, and exclusive direction of work
6. Any other relief the Labor Commissioner finds appropriate under California law
